Objective

As a full-stack developer, I have extensive experience in creating mobile applications using React Native and Laravel for the back-end. I specialize in deploying these applications on the cloud using DevOps technologies, including Git, Docker, and Jenkins. Additionally, I have successfully published my applications on both the Play Store and App Store, reaching a vast audience and providing value to my clients. My skills and experience in full-stack development, cloud deployment, and DevOps technologies enable me to create high-quality applications that meet user needs and deliver exceptional user experiences.
